Once i think it was American Airlines stock crashed all the way to like 4 cents overnight. It dropped like 99+%. It was based on a fucking hoax story about a fleet recall. Traders are fucking stupid. And if it happens to a serious product like food commodities, motherfuckers literally die. Panic shifts starved a bunch of shithole countries during 2007-8. And then the markets just went pretty much right back where theywere before the panic. So the time out culture became kind of normal. It's a sensible practice.

Now is the time to buy. Take advantage over the panicked investors. Do you really think companies that lose 30 percent of their stock market value over a weekend automatically are worth 30 percent less? Their hard assets aren't 30 percent less. Stocks will go back up. This is the best buying opportunity of the decade.

Coronavirus is the savior of the welfare state, killing off useless old boomers.

Yet, before finally fucking off, the boomers are trying to ruin the economy for their children. They demand people to stay home and do nothing such that they can survive a year or two more, at the expense of the economy diving into deep red sea worse than ever, resulting in job losses for the young and working population. But the Boomer doesnt care. He gets his pension, and he wants to live on. Even on his death bed, he is shitting on the younger generation.

This plunge is based on fear and panic. Investors make bad decisions on this basis. The corona virus is part of it. The other side of it is the oil war between Russia and the middles east oil producers. The oil war of price cutting will only go on so long. Eventually the corona virus will be contained. Stocks will go back up and oil will rise in price.

Unironically literally yes. The propping up of the stock market through QEs is so that the current day boomer saves his retirement portfolio at the cost of 2 generations later. In fact when you look around the entire US regime is made to satisfy boomers and to turn everyone younger than them into their wage/rentslaves. It's not just America either it's Europe as well where immigrants are imported to support the boomer economy without even giving a slightest of fucks that the continent will be BROWNED a few generations down the line. It really actually is a boomer plot and they're the ones who hold the power, worldwide.
